Reports from his ce this morning are to the effect that ness of the atmosphere. His extraordinary although it was the hottest day that Pittsburg has experienced in nearly ten years, his wounds gave him apparently little trouble, while mentally he was bright and active. His wounds ware examined and dressed this morning. There were not the faintest traces of blood poisoning or of any greater nt of inflammation than would be ex pected under the circumstances, and result the examination were decidedly encouraging both to his surgeons and their patient. After the examination, Mr. Frick asked for the morning papers and read with interes the account of the movements of the would-be assassin during Sunday and the interlews had with him last night from the Central Station to the County Jail, where he will remain until his trial in September. He was booked for felonious assault, the maximum penalty for which is but seven years, but other charges are to be added. He will remain in the jail until his trial in Sep-tember. A week from to-day he will be brought before Alderman Gripp, but this will be a formality only to meet with the require-ments of the law. He admitted to Warden McAlease that Berkman was not his right name, although he had borne it since his arrival in this country, but the closest questioning could not induce him to reveal his land. There is a good deal of mystery sur-rounding his recent movements, which has yet to be penetrated. At the time of his arrest he said that he had only come from New York the day before and had passed bu one night in the city, yet he has been identi fled by several men who have seen him over and around the Carnegie building for a full week. When first seen he was dressed like s ceived remittances to enable him to purchase dirk. When arrested his entire resource were a 5-cent nickel. It is also said that h

LOOKING FOR ACCOMPLICES.

The local detectives are bending all their energies to discover whether or not the murderous Russian had any accomplices with him in this city and a vigorous search is being made for a man answering the description of Aaron Stamm, who was Berkman's boon companion in New York, and who is said to have disappeared from his usual haunts in that city. When Berkman was dogging the entrance to the Duquesne Club, where Mr. Frick lunched on Saturday, he was accompanied, so say several of the members, by a man whom they recollect as being attired in a suit of blue black cloth, but of whose facial characteristics they are unable to give any clear description. It is thought that this fellow was an accomplice of the anarchist and waited at the bottom of the stairs with the intention of assisting him to escape, but took flight after the firing of the shots and the assembling of the crowd. Berkman, however, appears to have been all alone when he registered at the Merchants' Hotel on Friday night.

Superintendent of Police O'Mara left last night for New York for the purpose of conferring with Inspector Steers regarding the possibility of the attack being the outgrowth of a conspiracy among that section of anarchists in which Berkman belonged. He took with him several photographs of the prisoner and also, it is believed, private papers found in his clothing, which are likely to prove of value in the investigation at the New York. Concerning the latter matter, however, the police authorities at this end refuse to say a work.

Detective Sherey just arrived at Central station with a man who he arrested a shortime ago as an accomplice of Anarchist Berkman. He says the man has been with Berkman since July 14. He will allow no one to see him, nor will he give any information concerning the place of arrest, or anything whatever concerning the man, except the act that he is an accomplice, it is certain. Robert Sterling, the starved, shabbily dressed young fellow from Chicago who was arrested on Becond avenue late last night while telling a small crowd that he had walked all the way from that city to kill Andrew Carnegie, will be sent to the Workhouse to-day. When taken to the station he fainted for the want of food and afterwards admitted that he had eaten nothing since Friday. He says he has lived in Chicago for years, had worked on the cable lines and was in the Haymarket Square during the riot. The pockets of his clothing were entirely empty, save an ugly looking knife.

THE ONLY FEAR.

clothing were entirely empty, save an ugly looking knife.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon word was received from Mr. Frick's home that he was resting easy and the bopes of his recovery were very bright. The only thing that is feared now is the warm weather, which may have some effect on his recovery. Dr. Litchfield is constantly at the injured man's bedside, and will not leave it, although he says he has nothing to fear. The constant watch is being kept to prevent, if possible, any complications from setting in. Mr. Frick was in a most cheerful mood this morning. Almost the first thing he did was to ask how everything was getting along at Homestead. A number of messages of inquiry and sympathy were received from different points of the country. These were kept away from him for a time, but afterward he insisted on having them read to him and he dictated the answers.

time, but afterward he insisted on having them read to him and he dictated the answers.

At Mr. Frick's office there were numerous callers all morning, who were all anxious about Mr. Frick's health. Secretary Lovejoy spent most of the morning in Mr. Leish's office, which adjoins Mr. Frick's. During the morning a picture of the offices was taken. These pictures are to be used as evidence in Berkman's trial. Secretary Lovejoy said:

"Nothwithstanding Mr., Frick's absence, we are getting along just as usual. As perhaps you are aiready aware 200 additional men went to work this morning at Homestead, and more will follow. Of course the affair on Saturday caused great excitement in regard to work, but things are moving, and we anticipate no trouble."

BERKMAN TALKS OF HIS CRIME.

Berkman or Bergman, the would-be slayer of Mr. Frick, passed a quiet night at the County Jail. He arose at 60 clock this morning, and the first person he saw was Gen. McAleese. His first question was in reference to Mr. Frick's condition. The Warden informed him that Mr. Frick would recover.

"Well, I am sorry for that," said Bergman, Just at this time one of the guards came along and left a loaf of bread and some fresh water in Bergman's cell.

"What's that?" asked the young Anarchist.

"Why, that's your breakfast," said the

"How many meals do I get a day?"
"Three," said Warden McAleese, with a smile.
"Are they all like this one?" he asked.
"Oh, no; we have some variety."
"At what time do I get the three meals."
"Well, you get your breakfast now, and at dinner time you get two meals," said the Warden with a smile.
"Don't I get any supper?"
"Yes, you get that at dinner time."
"This is a great place to live," he said and then started on other subjects.

BORN IN ST. PETERSBURG.
"I was born in St. Petersburg, Russia, and was educated at the Gymnasium, one of the leading colleges at that place. I speak very poor English," said he to the warden, "as I have to take it from the Latin."
"What do the people say about my act," said he, rapidly changing the subject.
"They say it was a most cowardly act and you have no sympathizers."
"Oh, yes I have," he replied. "I know the people will be with me and I am sorry I made a bad job of it."
"Well don't you know if Mr. Frick dies you will be hanged, and if he lives you will have a long term in the penitentiary?"
"I know all that. I looked the matter up and am willing to stand the consequences, no matter what they are."
"What do the newspapers say about me?" was the next question.
"They say you are a bum printer, who only earned 88 per week," was the reply.

Officer Thompson of Greensburg, who is color-bearer of the Tenth Regiment, called at the jail this morning. He saw an article in one of the newspapers which stated that Bergman was the man who was arrested in Greensburg some time ago. As he was the arresting officer he wanted to see if he could identify the man under arrest. Bergman with four other men was called up and after looking at all the men Officer Thompson said that none of them was the one arrested in Greensburg.

RELEASED ON BOND.

TO BAIL BY JUDGE MAGEE. PITTSBURG, Pa., July 25.—A large crowd was present this morning in the Criminal Court to hear the decision of Judge Magee on the application of Hugh O'Donnell, the Homestead leader, for release on bail. O'Donnell was less nervous than during his earing Saturday, and seemed to be confident of his release. The court and attorneys were somewhat late, and it was some after the hour for opening before Judge Magee began to render his decision. O'Donnell, Fay, Ross and Allen were brought into court at 9:35 o'clock,

"I have gone over the case carefully. The right to be admitted to ball is a constitu-tional right and there must be evidence or strong presumption of murder in the first degree before a man can be refused ball. I have indicated before the responsibility of those engaged in this riot and I need say no more here. The first shots came from the shore. There was devilish malignancy on the part of the mob. The evidence shows that the defendant was not an active participant. It shows that he was in sympathy with the crowd and he, by his idly standing by, is responsible for the acts. I do not think there is any doubt about the right of the prisoner to be balled, and we'll fix it at $10,000. The way it stands he is chargeable with murder in the second degree."

District Attorney Burleigh: "Under your Honor's ruling we are content to the other defendants being admitted in the same ball."

The court then proceeded to accept ball gree before a man can be refused ball.

The court then proceeded to accept ball and the defendants were released. O'DONNELL RETURNS TO HOMESTEAD.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 25.—Hugh O'Donnell returned to Homestead at 12:30 o'clock today. He avoided a demonstration in his honor by taking a Baltimore & Ohio train which landed him at Salt Works station across the river from Homestead and crossed to the Homestead side on the ferry.

prison until 4 o'clock. This caused a partial dispersement of the crowd. On the bridge between the Court-house and the jail, Mr. O'Donnell stopped for nearly half an hour and received the congratulations of a number of his acquaintances, who were there. Then with three friends he walked to Maloney's restaurant, where he ate a sandwich and drank a glass of ale.

He was jubliant in his expressions and acted like a man off on a holiday. At Maloney's a hack was secured and the party was driven to the Natatorium: where all took 'a bath. O'Donnell was like a school boy just released from school. He dived and splashed and showed in many other ways his keen enjoyment. From the Natatorium the four men were driven to the Merchants' Hotel opposite the Baltimore & Ohio Ealiroad station, where more sanpwiches were indulged in. Just as the 12:40 train drew near the station the party made a rush for it and in this manner escaped the notice Mr. O'Donnell would have attracted had he stood on the platform. Mr. O'Donnell and his three companions left the train at Sait Works Station. The trip acros the river and the walk to O'Donnell's house was made without incident.

The members of the Advisory Committee had been notified of Mr. O'Donnell's plans for returning and they managed to keep the streets in the vicinity of O'Donnell's residence free of people. About half a dozen persons saw Mr. O'Donnell as he came from the river and ran forward to congratulate him. Several women made attempts at osculatory demonstrations.

FINAL PEACE OFFERING.

THE COMPANY'S ORDER POSTED AT HOMESTEAT UNDER CARNEGIE'S DIRECTION.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 25 .- The orders igned by Mr. Frick and posted at the Hometead Works this morning, to the effect that den returning to work would be insured peace offering of the firm to the strikers. In nakes an important statement. "Even if Mr. Frick should die," he said, "th policy of the management in the present crisis will be strictly adhered to. The statement that Mr. Carnegle is not in full accord with Mr. Frick in the course the latter has pursued of late, is absolutely and unqualinedly untrue. It can be proven beyond peradventure, if necessary, that Mr. Frick bas been but carrying out the plans formulated by Mr. Carnegle himself. As for our present position, we are still willing to confer with such of our employed as are worthy of our confidence. policy of the management in the present are still willing to conter with such of our employes as are worthy of our confidence. But we will do no talking through a conference committee, composed of men not in our employ. Nor will we recognize the assumption that these strikers have a right to permanent employment, whether their services are satisfactory or not. Hereafter we will do business on the old-fashioned plan that we can hire any man who wishes to work for e can hire any man who wishes to work fo we can hire any man who wishes to work for us."

It is understood that orders will be issued to-day by the Carnegie company to the superintendent and foreman of the Duquesne Mill to start up with non-union labor. The men at this mill struck on Friday out of sympathy for the men at Homestead.

The fast west-bound mail express on the Pennsylvania Railroad, which is not scheduled to stop at Swissvale, made a stop near that place this morning, and two day coaches with the bilinds closely drawn were uncoupled there. After the train had moved out, the cars were unlocked and over 200 men alighted. The stoamer Little Bill was in waiting at the landing at City Farm Station, close by the camp of the Fourteenth Regiment, and the men were taken over the river to the mill yand in batches. They are said to be skilled steel workers from New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

CARNEGIE IS SILENT.

HE REFUSES TO ANSWER LETTERS OR TELEwas the next question, but whose name the surgeons will not give out, had gone to California, and thereupon it was decided to seek the aid of another noted surgeon, who it is said is a present in Washington.

A WARNING LETTER.

The fact has been developed that on Saturday Mr. Frick received in his morning mail a letter, which informed him he would die before the next day. He passed it over to one his associates with a joking remark, "I have but twenty-four hours to live." Afterwards

"What do the newspapers say about me?" was the next question.
"The fact has been the surgeons will not give out, had gone to California, and thereupon it was decided to seek the aid of another noted surgeon, who it is said is at present in Washington.

A WARNING LETTER.

The fact has been developed that on Saturday of the newsport of the capitalistic press. I was a job printer and know all about the business. In fact I always earned the high est salary. Some people seem to think I had some confederates, but that is a mistake. I did the whole thing myself and all credit belongs to me. The workingmen of this country are with me in this affair."

The fact has been developed that on Saturday of the newsport of the cept in this city Saturday of the newsport the shooting of H. C. Frick, chairman of the Carnegle Steel Co., efforts were made to gain communication with Mr. Andrew Carnegle, who is now in Scotland, to obtain a state-upon Mr. Frick, but this was impossible as Mr. Carnegle is ensconsed in Bannoch Lodge, on Lochbannoch, the nearest telegraph and railway station to which is thirty-five miles distant. He has taken but twenty-four hours to live." Afterwards GRAMS ABOUT HOMESTEAD. any person from obtaining access to him and has positively refused to answer any tele grams or letters in any way connected with the affairsat Homestead. Mr. Carnegle has preserved the same moody silence toward all the members of the American legation here, and other persons in London with whom he is usually in communication have not heard a word from him since the beginning of the troubles at Homestead. The news of the shooting of Mr. Frick has intensited the feeling of all classes against Mr. Carnegie.

tensified the feeling of all classes against Mr. Carnegle.

A largely attended meeting of the labor representative leagues was held in this city yesterday, at which a resolution was adopted strongly condemning the course of Mr. Carnegle in regard to the Homestead troubles. The resolution added that, should Mr. Carnegie insult British workmen by further philanthropic efforts in their behalf it was hoped that they would show their detestation of him by contemptuously refusing to accept any offers of help from him.

UNDER POLICE GUARD.

THE PITTSBURG MILLS OF THE CARNEGIE CO

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 25 .- The approaches o the Thirty-third street gate of the Carnegle Co. are guarded this morning by a large an effort will be made to put several hun-dred men in this mill as soon as possible. No strangers have arrived at the works. Only he hands employed right along since the shut-down ten days ago are on duty, but ment indicates that they are in readiness for work. The furnaces are lighted, as they have been for the past few days. The locked-out men are taking matters coolly. One said today that he could not see why officers were needed when no demostration on the strikers' part had been made so far. It is inferred that the firm could put men in the mills without any molestation. On the other hand several of the present working force think that precaution is one of the necessaries just at the present state of affairs.

The statement that the city mills of the company were to start to-day is denied by Secretary Lovejoy, who stated that the company was in no hurry with these works. Mr. Lovejoy said: "The great fight is at Homestead and to that we will give our undivided attention and when we win it the other matters will be ensily settled." ment indicates that they are in readiness for

CRUSADE AGAINST PINKERTON. AN APPEAL TO GOV. FLOWER BY THE NEW YORK

WAITERS' UNION. NEW YORK, July 25 .- A vigorous crusad against Pinkerton men, the initiative in which has been taken by the members of the crossed to the Homestead side on the ferry.

Many people who saw him as he walked from the ferry landing with three friends who had accompanied him from Pittsburg to his residence on Fifth avenue, where his wife was waiting to receive him with open arms, did not recognize him.

Mr. O'Donnell took the secretive mode of return to Homestead to avoid any possibility of trouble that might arise from a demonstration of welcome by his fellow workmen.

Persons curious to know how a man acts when he is released from prison walls and knows he is free once more will be interested in the story of Mr. O'Donnell's movements from the time he left the Court-house until he reached his cozy little home in Homestead. When Judge Magee discharged him O'Donnell went out of the Court-house by the back entrance as if about to return to jail, while a triend who had been told what to do, gave the great crowd of spectators to understand that he was to remain inside the erton men are employed at several near-by summer resorts, notably at Manhattan Beach and Glen Island; that this is a clear violation

As a remedy for this state of things an appeal to Gov. Flower to enforce the anti-Pinkerton law and a consistent boycott of all summer resorts at which Pinkerton men are employed are proposed.

A SOCIALIST ORGAN.

ON FRICK'S LIFE.

NEW YORK, July 25 .- The Volks Zeitung, the organ of the Socialists in New York, says in its editorial columns: The attempt made in effect, the bloody punishment of one of the most brutal American despoilers of labor, can only cause honest satisfaction in the earts of all workingmen struggling for our great cause. If this man Frick should pass in his checks as a consequence of the dose of his own medicine administered to him, we should not shed a tear. His crimes against organized labor have brought him the punishment that he has merited a thousand fold. We do not deploye this act though we disapprove of such methods.

SEVERELY PUNISHED. THE FATE OF A MILITIAMAN WHO PRAISE BERKMAN'S DEED.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 25 .- Most severe pur ishment was meted out to Militiaman Thos Iams, private of K Company, Seventh Regi-ment, Pennsylvania National Guards, now in camp here. When the news of the at-tempted assassination of H. C. Frick reached camp, lams gloried over the deed and proposed three cheers for the Anarchist who lams was called before his regiment, the buttons cut from his uniform and he was orlered strung up by the thumbs as long as he could stand the punishment. who up to this point had stood flushed, but entirely self-possessed, turned the color of chalk and trembled. With another salute to his Colonel he turned and followed the corporal to the guard tent. Three regimental surgeons followed kams to the guard tent. The young man soon regained his self-possession and held out his thumbs for one of his fellow soldiers to tie. A stout piece of twine was tied tightly to each thumb and fams raised his arms while the Corporal drew the line over the tent pole.

The cord was pulled by three men until lams stood on tiptoe, and then it was made fast. The young man's face was deathly white, but his eyes were brilliant with determination. His arms wore rigid with his weight and the muscles stood out stiffly. The twine was cutting into his fiesh, but he pressed his lips firmly together and did not allow a moan to escape him. The surgeons, watch in hand, kept their fingers on his pulse. The beats came faster and faster, and slowly the man's head fell forward on his breast and his eyes closed. He could no longer press the ground with his toes, his dead weight hung heavy on the twine. Minute after minute passed away, and his pulsebeats were constantly increasing. At last one surgeon sald:

"One hundred and twenty beats, let him

"One hundred and twenty beats, let him down."
He was kept in the guard tent all night. Sunday morning the provisional brigade, under the command of Col. Hawkins, was ordered to assemble in parade. Three regiments of infantry and a battery of artillery turned out and drew up is two lines facing each other on the parade grounds. The disgraced soldier was brought out by a corporal's guard and marched before the entire camp on the parade ground. He was then drummed out of camp.

What St. Louis Military Men Say.

St. Louis militiamen are greatly interested in the lams case. They regard the proceedings as unjustifiably severe. Mr. C. D. Comfort, late Colonel Commanding of the First Regiment, N. G. M., remarked this morn-

'I regard the punishment, under the state ment of facts, as altogether too severe. I a right to dismiss the fellow, but the stringing up by the thumbs, and the other indigni ties, seems more worthy of savages. I should say that the dismissal of the fellow would have been enough. I can't see how they yesterday morning to Miss Mary Kolzovitch. "Suppose this case had happened under your Colonelcy?"

"I think I would have put the man on bread and water for forty-eight hours and then I would have given him an opportunity to retract. If he would not retract I would have recommended his dismissal. That would have been making the punishment fit the crime—or somewhat near it. The treatment of lams was far too brutal and barbarous."

ment of Inms was far too brutal and barbarous."

Maj. J. B. Harlew was asked his opinion as to the severity of the punishment to which Iams was subjected. The hajor said that he did not want to criticize Col. Streator's conduct without knowing all the circumstances of the case. "Martial law is one thing and civil law is another. Under martial law it is often necessary to treat men like children, and punishments are inflicted arbitrarily and (a civilian might say) capriciously. It was certainly a most unfortunate remark that Iames made; he was there in the interests of law and order, and should not have let himself be betrayed into the utterance of inflammatory and seditious talk. Whatever he might have thought of Frick or the Homestead troubles, as a soldier he had no business to have an opinion, or at least to utter
It. I suppose the feeling there was so tense and inflammable that the Colonel felt justified in taking steps with Iames that civilians would think unwarrantedly severe."

Winn, though not at last accounts arrested, was under guard at his son's house. Great excitement exists in the neighborhood and a lynching is probable.

While the little ones played on the lawn the new chairman reeived a visitor cordially and chatted about

I will be in New York on Wednesday next and will then announce the Campaign Committee, the Executive Committee and possibly the Advisory Committee. "You can say that the national headquarters will be opened by Aug. 1. The building will be secured this week. What house we will take I cannot say. I do not think we will be located very far from the Fifth Avenue Hotel and the Hoffman House; still there is no special desire to have the headquarters near the hotels, because if we are far away we are likely to have fewer visitors and they are not likely to stay so long." From a source almost as authoritative as Chairman Harrity himself, is learned the way in which the Democratic campaign will be conducted by the National Committee and the three committees subordinate to it. There is to be an Executive Committe of twenty-five, a Campaign Committee of nine, and an Advisory Committee of a number not decided upon, but probably of four or five members. People have wondered what the duties of these three committees will be. Here they are clearly defined:

Here they are clearly defined:
The Executive Committee, which is the largest, will continue in existence for the next four years, or as long as the National Committee lasts. It will transact all the business of the National Committee not connected with this campaign and on which the National Committee as a whole may see fit to act. It will also have vested in it some-thing of a veto power. The action of the Campaign Committee and of the National Chairman in conducting the campaign will be subject to the approval of the Executive Chairman in conducting the campaign will be subject to the approval of the Executive Committee. The Campaign Committee, as its name indicates, will have active charge of this campaign and the members will devote most of their time to the national ticket. Aided by the Advisory Committee, they will determine the policy and plan of campaign, and the policy and plan of campaign, and the policy. It will in all probability be divided into sub-committees, one of which will have charge of the speech-masking part of the campaign the speakers. There will also be a sub-committee on campaign literature. This body will determine the character of literary material to be prepared and will have special regard in its distribution to the convictions, sentiments or prejudices of localities.

The Campaign Committee as a body will consider all details of organization work outside of speaking and literature. If reports come in of defections in the executive and posted themselves thoroughly on the subject.

The Advisory Committee was created for the purpose of getting the services of men of experience in politics. FIGHTING FOR A CHILD.

A Habeas Corpus Writ Met by a Shot- He Discovered the Folly of Using Old

LAMONTE, Mo., July 25 .- Mrs. L. L. Holman of Indiana has been here several days trying to get possession of her little girl, now held husband and secreted at by her husband and secreted at his father's near this place. Having falled to secure the child she swore out a writ of habeas corpus and is proceeding legally. Armed with the writ, Mrs. Holman, a lawyer and constable visited the house where the child was and proceeded to take charge of it, but the father persuaded the officer to go home, as he said he was willing to give the child up, and when the officer was out of the way drew a shot gun on the lawyer and mother and ordered them to leave the premises, which they did, appealing to a justice for aid. The justice ordered the child delivered to the court this morning at so 'clock, but the order was not obeyed, and trouble may result. Mrs. Holman and husband have been separated about five years, and lived at California, Mo., when the separation occurred. By agreement she was to have custedy of the two children and moved to Warrensburg, where she made a support by dressmaking until her child was kidnapped, since which time she has devoted her time as far as she could seeking her child. After five gloomy years she located her lost darling last week in the vicinity of Lamonte. Her brother, A. W. Hunter of California, Mo., arrived to-day, and will aid his sister in recovering her child by law. Public sympathy is divided as to the claims of both parties. his father's near this place. Having

The Council Committee Hearing Arguments on Them This Afternoon. The Committee on Railroads of the City Council held an important meeting this arternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The object of the meeting was to hear the promotion of the four-street railway bills now pending in the Council and referred to the committee.

Nearly all the leading street railway officials and a large numof citizens interested in the several routes were present. Among the former were John Scullin, Chas. Green, Chas. H. Turner, P. C. Maffitt, George Baumhoff and others. The four bills to be considered by the committee were the Compton Heights bill, the Union Depot extension, the Taylor avenue bill and the Manchester road bill. The first bill taken up was the Compton Heights. Mr. George Baumhoff, Superintendent of the Lindell Railway, said that he had already been with the committee and expressed his views to them, and he would call upon some of the citizens present who were interested in it to speak on the subject. Mr. Paul H. Bierman then took the floor and spoke for about five minutes. He had been president of a meeting which was held last night to further the interest of the new road and advocated a favorable report. further the interest of the new road and advocated a favorable report.

When the committee makes its report on these bills, which will probably be tomorrow or Friday night next, the Council will take up the City Central Railway bill, which has already been reported on, and take action upon all the bills at the same time.

Hose With a New Engine.

From the Indianspoils Sun.

'There is a town out West,' said a general agent for fire apparatus, 'that the Mayor owns. There's no advertising for bids in that municipality. If the town needs anything the Mayor just gets it, and you bet your life the Council approves the deal. His Honor is honest and economical, and the tax-payers don't lose anything by him. He came into my office the other day, got some apparatus, and when the question was raised as to how the contract should be made out the answer came quick and decisive that it should be made out to the Mayor personally, and it was so done. Being relieved of the necessity of advertising, he saved about 10 per cent on the deal. But his absolute power came near losing him his popularity once.

'They had been struggling along with an old hand fire-engine and his honor got tired of turning out at every fire and pressing men into service to work the engine. He went up to Chicago and bought a steam fire-engine. It was a surprise to the Council, but, of course, they approved the purchase. It was a great day for the town when the new engine arrived and was hauled through the streets. The old hand engine was sold to a neighboring village and then the fire company of the Mayor's town laid awake nights secretly hoping that fire would break out. A week after the purchase the biggest dry-goods emporium in the town caught fire.

'A span of horses from a neighboring livery stable were hurriedly harnessed to the machine, and by the time it reached the fire steam was up. The owner of the store came out and begged the Mayor not to delage the store any more than necessary in putting out the flames. There was a great deal of trouble in getting the hose attached, for it was the feeble stuff that had been used on the old hand engine for years. The Mayor had forgoten all about hose when he bought the fire engine. At last the connection was made, and the Mayor himself started the engine. It was a proud moment for him, an

There's the wind whistling in the gables and shouting down the chimbley—chimneys not being invented yet—and teasing the old weathercock, spinning him round and round and rattling the old well chain. That's the wind. And the snow? The snow's everywhere. The "woods" up the hill there choked with it; the 'south pasture' choked with it; the barn door blocked with snow—piled up against the red windows—snow everywhere. Snow in the air, coming down softly—blown and whirled by the wind—sifting under the doors—coming down everyway. That's the snow. And the fire! The black oak knots—elbows and knucklebones—and the big back log of white oak, cut two weeks ago, and fat and green with sap, are all roaring together in the "chimbly" place. Pouf! and the sparks go up, dancing in the smoke and the flames dance and the green back log creaks out a fiddle tune. That's the fire.

You've raked out a bank of red coals in one corner of the hearth; you've shelled a good handful of corn into the ridiculous little popper, and you're lying on your small stomach ligging that popper over the coals. Mr. Snyder endeavored to pacify them, but to no purpose, and he opened the office door and commanded them to enter and receive their time checks. Among shouts and yells a stampede was made for the office and in less than two seconds the little room was filled to its utmost capacity.

Mr. Snyder in conversation with a Post-Disparch reporter said that the employes had been stampeded by several dissatisfied employes, or there would have been no trouble of any kind. He stated further, that he was requested by a number of the employes to inaugurate or establish some sort of an insurance company, and as he had spent considerable money and time in perfecting the arrangements, the men would either have to sign the applications or quit work. The employes have chosen the latter, and while they claim they will remain quiet and peaceable as long as no new men attempt to fill their vacancy, the property is being guarded closely and Sergt. He charged the Police Department with having arrested his client and having put him in the holdover without a warrant and with having railroaded an indictment against him through the Grandjury room, and all because, said Mr. McDonald, the young man was a nephew of Roger Harty, with whom Chief Harrigan was at outs. He could, however, show Alton to have a good reputation. "This good reputation had been indorsed by even this man Harrigan," said Mr. McDonald, "who pretends to be Chief of Police, and who, I suppose, is the Chief of Police, and who, I suppose, is the Chief of Police, and who, I suppose, is the Chief of Police, and who, I suppose, is the Chief of Police, and which had been written by a prominent railroad man to the Superintendent of the Puliman Palace Car Co., and which bore Chief Harrigan is indorsement. Mr. McDonald told the court that this was the way Maj. Harrigan indorsed young Alton before he learned that he was Roger Harty's nephew.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

That the Spanish women are capable of something besides dancing and flirting is demonstrated by a recent discovery in Pamago, Spain. A band of women robbers have been discovered in a large cave on the outskirts of that place, where they met to plan burglaries. That they achieved a modest success in this new departure is shown by the fact that they had when discovered some 15,000 francs worth of plunder which they had relieved the inhabitants of Pamago and surrounding towns. They had been for months the terror of that region, and raid upon raid find been made by the police before upon raid had been made by the police before their capture. They had done most of work in men's atire, casting that off, how-ever, in their hours of ease, and decorating themselves gorgeously in the raiment which they had found during their periods of activ-

"I walked into a lager-beer saloon with him, and we sat down to a table and the following colloquy ensued:

The mistakes that we make are lying to ourselves; it is a prudent thing to deceive everybody else, but not ourselves, when we are without a dollar or a cent in the world, or a friend. Can you really say to me that all the evils and troubles that have reduced you now here to poverty are not directly or indirectly to be traced to the demon rum? It was but a few months ago that Judge Dyckman told me that you were the most promising lawyer of Westchester County.
"Cochran was slient. Then I said to him: "Your elience convinces me that your heart tells you that you have been deceiving yourself. PEREMPTORY ACTION TAKEN BY JUDGE

Dr. Turner's Recital of His Interviews With the Accused Ruled Out by the Court-The Prisoner Has the Appearance of a Casual Spectator-Status of MEMPRIS, Tenn., July 25 .- The audience atding the Criminal Court this morning was as large and varied as heretofore. Some thirty ladies were inside the bar and several hundred men, white and black, outside, oc-cupying seats where they could see and hear but little, and with the thermometer indicating 97 deg. of temperature in the court-room. The defendant in her becoming black dress, jaunty white hat and waving a black fan mechanically, presented a pleasing picture, Her face is entirely devoid of expression, and when her gray eyes are turned upon you with a half look of inquiry and curlosity there is is to all intents and purposes a mere spectator attending a trial in which she has no greater interest than the other spectators. no one would suspect her of being the criminal, sane or insane, on trial at the bar of

Dr. B. F. Turner, a young physician, who has made diseases of the mind and psychology a special study, testified that he had made four visits to the jall to see Alice Mitchell, and his opinion was that she is now insane, and he did not think her malady curable. She said in reply to als questions: "I could have married Fre was going to work and support both of us, I was going to dress like a man and raise a noustache by shaving."

Dr. Turner further said that when Alice alked upon general subjects he found nothing to indicate insanity, except that she did not talk like a mature girl of her age. While she is nearly 20 years of age she talked like a girl of 5 years of age. Her class of insanity belongs to that, of imperative ulse or imperative conceptions. Dr ner added that he said to Miss Mitchell "You must know that at some time or other there will be an investigation of this case of yours and I want you to tell—" "What's that's what's that, sir?" called out Judge Duboise, "Is that the manner in which you got your information from Miss Mitchell?"

Mitchell?"
"Yes, sir," answered Dr. Turner.
"That will do," thundered the Judge.
"Gentlemen, this whole proof is inadmissible under all authorities," and the Judge read at length from the books to sustain his ruling. This brought a prolonged discussion between the lawyers, which was continued up to the hour of recess of court, the witness, Dr. Turner, being still on the stand.

up to the hour of recess of court, the witness, pr. Turner, being still on the stand.

A MEDICAL EXPERT'S TESTIMONT.

The most important, as well as the most interesting testimony submitted in the case so far was that of Dr. F. S. Sims of the Memphis Medical College:

"I have been a medical practitioner for nearly forty years, and have given special attention to mental and nervous diseases, which I teach in college from the chair of the principles and practice of medicine, and I edit the Memphis Medical Journal. I saw Alice Mitchell in jail and made an examination of her medical condition ten or twelve days after the homicide. I went to the jail on purpose to inquire into her mental condition. After propounding certain questions, I had no trouble about it, for I found her conditions entirely similar to other cases I had seen before and of which I knew the history.

"This conversation led me to believe that she had been undergoing marked changes of a pathological character and that she was not really responsible for what she had done. That was my conclusion with regard to her condition."

"Did she tell you why she killed Freda Ward?"

"She told me she did it because she loved

Ward?"

"She told me she did it because she loved Miss Ward and that she was afraid Miss Ward had fallen in love with someone else, some man. On that account she gave me to understand she contemplated killing Miss Ward and then taking her own life."

"What did she tell you as to the relations

Ward and then taking her own life."

"What did she tell you as to the relations she sustained toward Miss Freda Ward?"

"She stated that very clearly. It was that of mutual love in the sense of a love between male and female. Such cases are not uncommon in the records of the medical profession. There are quite a number on record, and they are generally recognized and classified by the profession. This girl stated to me that she and Miss Ward were engaged to be married and that she had presented Miss Ward with an engagement ring, but that they had been prevented from carrying out their plans for elopement and marriage. She said the discovery of the elopement had led to the inhibition of all further intimacy between her and Freda. She showed emotion only when she thought of her relationship with Miss Ward. When upon other matters she was indifferent wholly. She showed no remorse.

"Insanity is hereditary and is transmissible, and I informed myself that Alice's mother had been insane."

"From what you saw of Alice, would you say she was insane?" asked Col. Gantt.

"Most assuredly."

"Would you say she was insane now?"

"Well, I have not seen her since the time I speak of, shortly after the tragedy, but I will say that her insanity is of a kind from which recovery is rare.

"Her insanity is of a kind that generally develops fixed delusions in the way of imperfect ideas, that are just as fixed in the mind of the insane as a sane man's idea that

"Her insanity is of a kind that generally develops fixed delusions in the way of imperfect ideas, that are just as fixed in the mind of the insane as a sane man's idea that twice two makes four. The delusion is recognized as a fact, and if it is to accomplish an end the subject will undertake that end. In all forms of insanity there is generally a physical disease attendant. In the great majority of cases of insanity that is continued there is heredity. In cases of puerperal insanity there is a blood taint that will form an undercurrent of heredity. If there is a hereditary taint of insanity, the puerperal insanity may become permanent."

"And now, doctor, a lover kills his sweetheart because she has discarded him and is going to marry another fellow, is that insanity."

'No, sir.''
''Well, if one woman devotedly loves another woman, the other woman cuts off the intimacy and is going to marry another and the first kills the second, would that indicate treasure?'' "No, sir. There's a link missing in that "Weil, if Alice Mitchell loved Freda Ward and Freda was engaged to marry another fellow of whom Alice was jealous and Alice threatened that Freda should never marry the fellow, and at last killed Freda in order than the should power marry the fellow, and at last killed Freda in order wards are would you consider.

"Yes, sir."
"Why?"
"Because, in the first place, the love entertained by Alice is unnatural. In the second place the mere fact of the killing is indicative of lack of will power.

"I do not consider her case to be one of paxanola," continued Dr. Sims. "Her case is somewhat similar to paxanola, but different in some respects. I do not believe Alice Mitchell's malady is curable. In all cases of mental disease there are times of improvement, but in grave forms of disease there is no permanent cure, no prospect of reaching a condition of perfect sanity again. She is liable to the most imperative conceptions with regard to homicide and suicide. I do not think her malady is even yet fully developed, for I consider it to be of a grave type."

oped, for I consider it to be of a grave type."

As this remarkable trial progresses close scrutiny of the prisoner's face as she appears in court from day to day falls to geven a single trace of feeling, or even a sugg. stion of interest in the testimony which is to decide her fate. She is either totally indifferent to the outcome or she is the most consummate actress that ever appeared before a jury. Her face is decorated continually with a quiet, self-satisfied smirk.

There she sits surrounded by lawyers and spectators, subjected to the coldly critical gase of the women and the quizzical glances of the men; on the witness stand her friends and relations weep as they recount the incidents of her life and the circumstances of the horrible human butchery she perpetrated; the most delicate details of her private life are laid bare as by the surgeon's scalpel, and the most compromising, if not criminating, testimony is delivered to the jury that stands, as it were, as the most reliable remaining barrier between her and the scaffold. Either sue has no comprehension of the gravity of her predicament, or she cares a great deal less for the responsibilities of life than the most careless person does who is regarded generally as possessing a sane and normal mind.

most careless person does who is regarded generally as possessing a sane and normal mind.

She is nearly 20 years of age, but she looks no more than 17. She is dressed in black except for a jaunty cream colored, white trimmed hat that surmounts her piquant face. She waves a tan languidly to and fro, and her feet, which do not reach the floor, dangle and swing wide apart. Nothing more is needed to complete the picture of indifference except a chew of gum. Alice is not bored by the evidence. She looks like she had dropped in to listen to the proceedings in a casual way and felt it a courtesy to the court to remain until adjournment, and being there she listens to the evidence, wearing the while her smirk of satisfaction. When a witness makes a response in which is disclosed some piccadillo of Alice's she looks around and meets the eyes of those facing her, with the expression of one who would say all this is true. Do you see anything strange in it?

Once when her favorite sister, Miss Addie, being on the witness stand, broke into tears and blocked the business of the court for a time, Alice took advantage of the interruption to lean forward and speak to her lawyers, evidently saying something ludicrous, for she leaned back with a smile all over her face, her sister on the witness stand shaking with grief. Her thoughts seem to be pleasant. At times a far-away look comes into her eyes, but no unpleasant memories seem to haunt her.

WASHINGTON NEWS. Senator George Advocates the Anti-Option

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 25 .- Senator Vest tion authorizing the President to proffer to Great Britain, Germany and France, as an in-ducement to enter into an international agreement for free coinage of silver, a reduction of 25 per cent in tariff duties on tex-spoke of the New Orleans and New York Cotton Exchanges as being composed of some 600 men—not one of whom raised cofton, consumed it or even handled it. On one day in the New York Cotton Exchange 1,500 bales of "mythical," "phantom," or "wind" cotton had been sold for one bale of real cotton, and he asked if that was real, genuine commerce or whether it was gambling.

At five minutes past 2 o'clock Mr. George yielded the floor temporarily at the request of Mr. Allison, who thereupon presented the conference report on the sundry civil appropriation bill. The report, although referring to the amendments of the bill by numbers only, covered many pages of typewritten letter size paper and its reading occupied nearly a quarter of an hour.

The nomination of George Shiras to be associate justice of the Supreme Court will trouble the Senate Judiciary Committee no longer. At the meeting this morning it was decided to report it to the Senate without recommendation. The attendance was the same as the preceeding meetings, two Republicans and four Democrats. The friends of Mr. Shiras are elated to-day for the fact that the Democratic Senators allowed the nomination to be reported even without recommendation is taken by them as an indication that no obstructive factics will be resorted to by them to prevent action on the nomination in the Senate.

The attendance in the House to-day despite the insufferable heat was unexpectedly large. There was little interest manifested in the proceedings, however, and the members were restive, making frequent trips to the cloak rooms and the lobbies behind the Speakers desk to catch a breath of air.

Mr. Brookshire (Dem., Indiana,) reported adversely from the Committee on Post-offices and Post Roads the resolution regarding an investigation of Postmaster-General Wanamaker's connection with the Leake Pneumentic Tube Co. of Philadelphia, the evidence not warranting an inquiry.

wood workers of that city in behalf of the strikers made a report of the entire success of his mission. He was accompanied by Mr. Andrew Grassley of the Executive Board. They addressed a meeting of the Bohemian Union No. 4 and in about five minutes $172 had been subscribed for the $1. Louis brethren. Arrangements were made for a mass-meeting of all the Chicago milimen unionists this evening, and assurances were given that a large sum would be realized. There are five mill men's unions in Chicago, and Mr. Green said that he found the unionists disposed to assist $1. Louis to the extent of their ability. Mr. Grassley remains in Chicago several days to look after the agitation.

The planing mill men desire the statement corrected that they had received $1,400 from Carpenters' Union, No. 5. They have received but $100 from that society, but are promised $700, and they have no doubt that it will be forthcoming upon occasion.

At the meeting this morning there was a great deal of criticism of the statement emanating from the mill bosses that they were getting men rapidly, in fact, had about $00. The strikers say this is no doubt true, if the four, "square" planing mills are included in the domputation, for these employ rully $400 men. The "unfair" milis can not, the strikers say, muster more than $0 hands, counting stragelers, teamsters, office men, etc.

There is reason for doubting the statement in the morning papers that the union carpenters have decided to go out in sympathy with the planing mill men. An attempt to see the Executive Board of the Carpenters' Council was not successful, but from a source apparently trustworthy, it was learned that the odds were about even as to their striking. The Council will meet in regular session on Tuesday night, and no doubt the matter would come up. One reason for doubting that they would serve no useful end. The mill men are not anxious that the carpenters should strike. They will be satisfied if the carpenters will only do their duty as unionists and refuse to handle not m

Sadier was shot and instantly killed by his wife, Ida, at il o'clock yesterday morning in their flat at 3403 La Salle street. The woman and one of two witnesses claim that the shooting was accidental. Sadier had not been home for two days until yesterday morning, when he returned with a friend, John Haley of Memphis, Tenn. When he happened to throw open his coat his wife saw that he had in his pocket a photograph of a woman. She asked him to let her have it, but her drunken husband refused, declaring that he would not be buildozed by a woman. Mrs. Sadier picked up a revolver and, pointing it at Sadier, told him shat if he did not give up the picture she would shoot. She claims that her husband made a move as if to throw something at her and tried to grab her arm. SADLER'S CAREER.

A year ago last January Chief Harrigan received a letter from the Chief of Police of Brooklyn, N. Y., asking if a man named Marcelles Sadler lived in St. Lonis and if he were living with a woman whom he represented as his wife. The letter stated that he had a wife in Brooklyn, who had applied or was about to apply for a divorce from him, and the information was also given that Sadler would probably be found employed in some pool-room. The matter was given to betective John Hobbs to look up and Mr. Hobbs was not long in learning that Sadler was employed at a turf exchange in the was living with a woman who had previously been an inmate of Vic De Bar's and afterwards of Mattle Roberts' house of ill-fame. The couple were then living at are-spectable boarding house at South Fourteenth street near Chouteau avenue. When Mr. Hobbs first called on Mrs. Sadler, or the woman who was living with the Brooklyn man as Mrs. Sadler, she was averse to giving any information about him, but he sacceeded in learning that he had relatives living for some time to locate him.

When asked this morning if she had ever lived in Brooklyn, the prisoner said that she had not, nor anywhere else in the East. She had been married to Sadler five years, she said, and they had lived most of the time in St. Louis. She was too much prostrated to talk much on any subject and seemed most of all averse to answering questions in regard to her domestic affairs. She claimed, however, that she was married to Sadler in nowever, that she was married to Sadler in John Holley, the acquaintance who was with him last night, is said to have torn up some correspondence between Sadler and some women, which the man now dead had handed him before he was shot.

From Harper's Magazine.

Philarete Chasles relates in his memoirs how, one afternoon as he was at work in his newspaper office, a young man with a military air, looking as bold as if he were going to the wars, knocked imperiously at the door, walked in, sat down, and said, without further preamble:

"Monsleur, I am Hugo."

Then after handing to Chasles the famous yellow-covered book with the password "Hi-erro" on the title-page, he asked him if he was on his side or not, and continued:

"Monsleur, not only are we going to change poetry, which needs a fundamental revolution, but grammar also. What do you think about our prosody? French prosody must be completely overhauled."

So It is in France, where neither centuries nor years count, but only minutes and seconds, the shock of contraries and the violence of reaction. The French must always be fighting about something—even for Bolleau against Ronsard, and for Nonette against Voltaire. Printers' ink must smell of powder, otherwise life seems insipid and thought without any savor. Victor Hugo's visit to Chasles is typical. The history of French literature is that of the perpetual storming of Paris by a handful of young adventurers whose object is to demolish the existing formulæ of an always incomplete art and to enthrone themselves victoriously in a new edifice which they propose to build upon the ruins. But no sooner has one set of innovators achieved success than another band begins to attack the victors of yesterday, and so battle follows battle, and revolution follows revolution, with the accompaniment of violent polemics, and of envy, hatred and all uncharitableness. The documents, the exactitude, the experimentation, and the professed scientific method of the naturalist evolution, which only a rew years ago was proclaimed to be definitive, now sicken the elite. The cry at present is for golden-winged dreams, or, at any rate, for something new. Enough of the gross language of Naturalism, its ignoble ideas, its exclusive materialism:

Neither she nor her relatives are sure that he has gone to Germany, but they have many bits of evidence which give light to this suspicion. They do not know why Mr. Schafer left his wife in so quiet, hasty and unostentatious a manner, but they think he felt that his relatives-in-law did not show him the proper respect. Mrs. Pfeiffer, his mother-in-law, said: "We do not know why Mr. Schafer has gone. He had many old country aristocratic notions; he was highly educated, and often said he would like to go back to Germany. He has told us that his father has occupied a high position in the Krupp Gun Works at Essen, Germany, for twenty-seven years and he himself was reared there and received his technical education in that place. He married my daughter in October, 1890, and they kept house at 1015 Benton street until the first of this year when they went to boarding. He was a very close man in money matters, and saved much of his salary. His friends say that all will yet be well, and his wife believes that he will return to her and explain his disappearance in a satisfactory manner, but at present his actions are a mystery."

This same man called on Mr. Diehm last Friday and said that he had about $2,500 with the sutler at Fort Riley. He had no money and he wanted to know how he could get it. Mr. Diehm told him to write for it and gave him a letter of introduction to the Germania Hotel, but the officials there state that no such man came to them. He told Mr. Diehm that he had brought a friend with him from Germany who was working in the city. This is perhaps the August Kellner mentioned. Mr. Diehm thinks that the man who died at Alton is the Joseph Risse with whom he had business.

MEASURING WIND. HOW THE OBSERVATIONS ARE MADE AT

THE SIGNAL STATION. There is no more interesting study than a weather bureau. This is particularly true made into the various instruments and means used in taking observations and the manner in which they are operated to produce the best results. The St. Louis bureau consists in taking two observations daily at 7 a.m. and 7 p.m., local time, and in the issuing of weather maps showing the exact weather conditions throughout the country from Maine to upon observations taken at 8 a.m., seventy-fifth meridian time, and the evening map is based upon observations taken at 8 p.m., seventy-fifth meridian time. The weather reports from which these maps are made are telegraphed in cipher and show atmospheric pressure, temperature, direction of the wind, state of the weather, amount of rainfall, dew point, wind velocity, maximum or minimum temperature and the amount and kinds of clouds. All this information is given in a cipher message which rarely ex-

The minimum thermometer registers the iowest temperature in twenty-four hours. This is done by means of a glass tube with a bulb which is filled with alcohol. In this is a small steel needle which registers the temperature. The needle sinks as low as the conditions and temperature will permit, but when there is a change and the weather becomes warmer it refuses to go up. In this way the lowest temperature during twenty-four hours is obtained.

The anemometer registers the velocity of the wind. One portion of this instrument is placed upon an elevation where it will be Dors Missouri Republicanism include Pinkertonism?

THE only significance of the shooting of Frick is the proof of the existence of mur-

SILENCE on Maj. Warner's part must be regarded as consent to the Pinkerton platform of his party organs.

It is queer that Assassin Berkman should lament the loss of his fulminating caps so much. He has his cigarettes.

THERE is some consolation in the reflection that few places in the country can cost speers at St. Louis weather.

THE President is quoted as saying that if he is elected he must elect himself. This indicates that he has a fine grasp of the political situation.

WHILE Chairman Carter was making noney disposing of "Footprints of Time" teresting work, entitled "Footprints of BUSINESS men need not worry over the absurd anti-option bill. If passed it cannot be enforced, and will probably be repealed before the ink is dry, like Thad Stevens' anti-gold speculation law.

THE Democratic House has a tough job trying to keep down the extravagance of the Republican Senate, but it is accom plishing some results. The country will be better off for the political revolution of

It has been thoroughly demonstrated to the workingmen that they cannot force a fair division of the benefits of protection They can, however, through the ballot box prevent the unjust taxation of themselves and their fellow citizens for the ex clusive benefit of tariff barons.

THE denunciation of Carnegie by the English press for his hypocrisy in posing as a philanthropist abroad while squeezing labor at home will doubtless bring on another spasm of Anglo-phobia in the Republican press. Hypocrisy is one of the pillars of latter-day Republicanism.

In his speech opening the campaign, at Sedalis on Wednesday, Maj. Warner home market by taxation would compel should not fail to "stand up for Missouri" and Missouri law against the hostility of his party organs. They indorse the Pinkerton view of labor organizations and the Pinkerton way of suppressing them.

THE fact that the President asked if the nomination of a certain man to be Postmaster at Augusta, Me., would be agreeable to Mr. Blaine is paraded by his friends as an act of great magnanimity. The President's friends know best his capacity for magnanimity and how small an act on in the price of products. his part may appear great.

In the opinion of the local organ of plutocracy the refusal of FRICK to give fair wages to his employes and his record as a labor-union breaker had nothing to do with the attempt of a crank to kill him. It was caused solely by the refusals of his men to submit to his terms, which it apparently regards as a crime against law

THE resolution of the Homestead Advisory Committee expressing sympathy with Frick and condemnation of his shooting was timely and proper as a formal of the "swag" when the power of taxing towards such deeds of villainy, No one believes that the Homestead men have any sympathy with anarchism and assassination, but there are cranks who accuse them of it.

THE IAMS CASE.

Private Iams of the Pennsylvania militia was guilty of conduct unbecoming a soldier and subversive of discipline when he publicly and in camp expressed his approval of the shooting of Frick. He undoubtedly deserved punishment and the degree of it was a matter to be regulated by military law, but the propriety of the manner and ostensible object of the punishment inflicted upon him may be questions. Subjecting him to torture to extract a retraction and apology and to extreme degradation because of the failure to do so, savors more of persecution for opinion than of punishment for breach of discipline. It is especially important that the authority of the militia officer should be limited strictly to the maintenance of discipline and should not infringe in the slightest degree upon freedom of opinion except in so far as it affects discipline. The uniformed citizen clothed in brief military authority is prone to cut fantastic capers and nothing so tends to bring the militia into disrepute with men of spirit as the possibility of being subected to unwarranted and unreasonable degradation through the exercise of epaulet tyranny. The zeal of authority seems to have been carried to excess in the case of Private Iams.

A POINT TO BE SETTLED.

The local Republican organ strenuously contends that the responsibility for the shooting of Frick rests with the workingmen of Homestead, because they are on a strike. It argues that when labor unions or bodies of workingmen attempt to secure what they may regard as fair wages by striking they thereby place themselves in nostility to law and order and must be held responsible for all acts of violence which may have any connection with their attitude, whether they have anything to do with it or not.

This course of reasoning assumes that the mere act of endeavoring to better their condition steeps workingmen in crime. It takes no account whatsoever of any wrong or injustice on the part of employers and requires the workingmen to to the scholars of his Sunday-school, exsubmit to any terms imposed upon them. The assumption is that all strikes are in themselves unlawful and riotous and impose upon the authorities the duty of imnediately suppressing or allowing employers to suppress them as inimical to the peace of society and the rights of property. Should this view prevail labor organizations would all be outlawed and the employer could impose any condition upon labor with command of the full power of the State to enforce his decrees should his employes attempt by combination, which is the only effectual means they can use, to resist them. It is a practical denial of all the rights claimed by labor and an assertion of all the privileges capital wants to obtain complete mastery of labor forces.

The importance of this newspaper view of the question arises from the fact that it he was also making material for a more in- is advocated by the organ of the Republican party of Missouri. The people of the State are deeply interested in knowing whether the party indorses this platform, and, if entrusted with power, will carry it into effect and destroy the safeguards now embodied in our laws, assuring equal rights to all classes of citizens. They should insist upon being enlightened upon this point by the candidates of the party.

THEN AND NOW.

Four years ago Republican workingmen were in high feather over the promise of higher wages from the higher tariff with which their party promised to protect American labor from competition with "Europe's pauper labor." They honestly believed then that the la against imported contract labor would prevent employers from bringing in enough cheap foreign labor to depress the labor market at will. But they know now that it does not protect them from competition at home with cheap foreign labor, and that the McKinley bill has, contrary to their hopes, ac tually and largely increased that competition, to the sole advantage and benefit of protected employers. When warned four years ago that force ing up prices of American products in our Americans to pay more for such products than other people have to pay and would certainly tax labor by forcing it to pay more for necessaries without increasing its wages, they laughed to scorn the idea that manufacturing corporations, trusts and combines could monopolize the benefits of higher prices and deprive labor of any share therein. They pointed confidently to the labor organizations and boasted that these would find a way to extort the wage-earner's full share of the increase

But now they look back at a long series of wage reductions, lockouts and defeated strikes, in which the protected barons have triumphed over the oldest and strongest labor unions and taught them how powerless they are with any weapon except a well-directed ballot. . The more complete the triumph of Mr. Frick and the Carnegie company over the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, the more effective will be the object lesson which teaches workingmen that no labor union in this country is strong enough to secure any fair division tion of the attitude of the labor forces labor's consumption of the necessaries of the law's executors.

If Maj. Warner at Sedalia stands up for free labor's right to quit work unmolested by Pinkerton's armed bands, and to ac cept employment unmolested by any labor organization's mobs, the Post-Disparch will stand with him. But if he stands up for the position taken on that subject by the leading organs of his party in Missouri and Pennsylvania-if holds that every organization engaged in a strike is necessarily a criminal organization, whose members may be rightfully shot down as armed traitors by Plutocracy's Pinkerton Guards-the Post-Dis-PATCH will have to stand up for Missouri's Democratic laws, and oppose all Republican efforts to foist the Pennsylvania situation and methods upon the free labor of the West. Has Mai. Warner the manhood to stand up for Missouri law against Plutocracy's edicts and baronial armies?

Senator Plumb's Widow

From the Chicago Times.

The country owes a debt of gratitude to the widow of the late Senator Plumb. Following a custom that has gained strength through recent precedents, there was an appropria of $5,000 for the benefit of Plumb placed in the deficiency bill. When the matter was called to her attention she promptly asked that the item be stricken out, as she was not in need of the money. In this she gave a fitting re-buke to other wealthy widows of dead states men who are drawing large pensions from the Government while enjoying handsom incomes from other sources.

Our saintly Postmaster-General would bave come a good deal nearer to the truth if he would have said something like the following:

It is the evident intent of the protective It is the evident intent of the people of this country should be poor as long as they are fools enough to allow the favored few to appropriate the fruits of their labor; that where one man should occupy a large house paid for with other people's money, 200,000 must reside in tenement houses on account of being legally robbed by those who enjoy special privileges.

If Mr. Wanamaker intended to practice what he preaches he would join the poor, but his conduct proves that he does not believe what he says. He is in no hurry whatever to lay up treasures in Heaven, but is perfectly happy and contented to perpetuate a system of legalized robbery that enables him to be one of the few who occupy a large house. one of the few who occupy a large house, while it permits him to make such enormous profits as to give him power enough over the 200,000 who must reside in tenement houses to have them "stood up and delivered" in blocks of five.

Mr. Wanamaker's honesty appears to be closely related to that of Sam Johnsing. Wifen Sambo was asked if Bre'r Johnsing was honest he replied: "Well, I dunno. He mought be, 'an den agin he moughtn't. But I tell you what, Boss, ef I was a chicken and Sam Johnsing was about I'd roost high."

What Negro Republicans Get.

What have we received for our fidelity to the How many negroes have secured decent po-

How many negroes have secured decent positions under the officials, federal and city, in the city of St. Louis?

Two or three intelligent negroes secured places as "spittoon artists" in the Federal Building and I am informed that a then prominent Republican Congressman congratulated them upon their appointment. There are a great many white Republicans that like the negro voter very much, but they are not especially in love with the political negro and especially if he is an aspiring one. There are Republicans that have been and will be candidates for an office of some kind who employ thousands of men in their establishments in the city of St. Louis, and yet, with all their love for the negro, they won't give him a chance to earn a living for his wife and children, and yet these men have the impudence to ask intelligent colored men to support them for office. Just before election day they will tell the negro how they love him, what hardships they endured in going to the war to battle for his freedom.

I deny that they went for any such purpose. Some of them went because they couldn't help themselves and others for Sis per month and upward, according to rank. The freedom of the negro was a military necessity and all intelligent negroes so consider it.

In conclusion, I beg leave to say that hereafter we will vote for men for office that are friendly to us, be he Democrat, Republican or anything else.

Illegal But Unpunished.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: For many days past one of the St. Louis morning dailies has been sending to its subscribers inclosed in each paper a picture which it calls a "tintograph," with the information that one of the numbers of these pictures will draw the lucky holder of that umber a prize. It is well known that there number a prize. It is well known that there is a law in existence for the suppression of lotteries and forbidding the use of the United States mails to lottery advertising papers. As many of these pictures are blanks and only a limited number draw prizes, they are lottery tickets, pure and simple, and hence contraband of law in the mails. How is it that if some poor devil sets up shop to sell old-fashioned lottery tickets he is dealt with as the law directs, while this newspaper distributes lottery tickets unwhipt of justice. Is there intentional discrimination here, or is it that the "watchmen on the walls," paid fat salaries to subserve the ends of law and justice, are sleeping on their posts? Where all are, or should be, "equal before the law," let all receive equal justice at the hands of the law's executors.

As they reached the store floor they were almost choked by the smoke and fumes of gas that filled the room. McNair immediately began a search of the store for fire, while Bender rushed into the cellar.

When Bender reached the cellar he was almost sufficated, but he bent all his energies to reaching the front, where the heater is located, and succeeded in doing so. He saw a flame curling up along the shelving of the gas meter, which is located under the front steps of the private entrance to the building. Rushing to the front doors of the cellar he threw them open and ascended to the pavement for air.

ceilar he threw them open and ascended to the pavement for air.

As soon as he had recovered, despite the advice of the police officers who had hurried to the spot, he rushed back into the ceilar, and, quickly disconnecting two ten gallon fountains of soda water which stood by the gas meter, turned their contents upon the flames, which were immediately extinguished. The carbonic acid gas in the soda water smothered the flames more effectually than a patent are extinguisher could have done.

A well-known logician in speaking of the matter said: "For a century at least, soda water has been used to queuch the burnings of fire-water in the human system, but it has remained for Mr. Funk's clerk to use that ebuillent and pleasing drink to quench the flames of burning gas in a cellar. Some doctors hold that like cures like, that one poison is an antidote for another. Mr. Funk's clerk must now be a firm believer in that theory, for he has successfully pat it into practice in extinguishing the flames of burning watergas by turning on a fountain of sparkling gas-water.

The bicycle, with its high rate of speed, was brought into good service to day in catching a thief. About fifteen miles west of Muncie resides Henry Brandon, a farmer. This morning at about 5 o'clock Edward Stanley, residing north of Muncie, passed this place on horseback. He, spied a new buggy and harness which he attached his horse to and drove off. At 5 o'clock Mr. Brandon's sons Oscar and Charley went to the barn and missed their buggy. Fresh tracks in the damp dust could easily be seen. The boys each owned a bicycle, which they hastily mounted, and the chase began. The boys followed the track by the early daylight at a high rate of speed and entering this city overtook. But withal, there has been trouble, due to the alleged discovery of theft by the con-ductors, but not either on the Missourl Pa-cific or on the Wabash. The local railroad officials state that the shortages have been known for at least a month. They state that the principal sufferers have been the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and the Fort Scott & Gulf Railroad.

method whereby the railroads have defrauded is by means of col lusion between conductors on the several divisions and "steerers" for the roads at the depots. These passenger drummers, sometimes styled "directors," are said to have made it a practice to steer travelers away from the ticket windows toward which it is their business to guide them, and put them on the train. The passenger pays the "steerer" the fare, less a discount, and the conductor ornaments his hat with a colored card and gives him a letter to the conductor on the next division, who carries the passenger through. The fare is divided between the steerer and conductors to the loss of the road. Kansas City is alleged to have been the center of this system of robbery, which is said to have extended thence to the West.

The unsuspecting passengers did not know that they were parties to a fraud of this kind, and it is even said that the conductors who honored the letters of introduction from the conductor on the other divisions were oftentimes innocent and merely honored the card of his brother conductor. It happened some time has that a gentleman with his wife and son came through to Kansas City from Chicago, bound for the Southwest. He was induced to pay the "steerer" at Chicago and was given a letter to the conductor of the division over which he was to pass to his destination. When he reached Kansas City it was discovered that the conductor to whom the letter was addressed would not go out for three days. The gentleman was obliged to lie over at Kansas City for that length of time. He was at a loss to know why he could not make immediate connection and his inquiries on this subject led to an omical investigation. Lhe remedy proposed by the roads is to employ a collector-conductor, whose soleduty it shail be to collect fares. The conductor proper will then have his entire time to devote to the management of the train.

COLLECTORS ON ST. LOUIS ROADS.

The Ohio & Mississippi road is the only road running into St. Louis which uses collectors. The Big Four uses them on its Chicago branch running between Cincinnati and Chicago, but not between here and Cincinnati. But four roads in the United States use collectors. They are besides the Ohio & Mississippi and Big Four, the Chesepeake Ohio, running from Cincinnati to points Kast, and the Chitago, Milwaukee & St. Paul which uses collectors on all its divisions. Of these the Ohio & Mississippi road was the first to put on collectors. The Santa Feroad inaugurated the innovation, but has discontinued to employ collectors.

The system is expensive, as two men are employed to attend to the duties which were performed before by one man. The Ohio & Mississippi road pays its collectors 3100 a month. They make the run together with the conductor.

It is said that this plan works to advantage on the big Eastern roads where the care of the train is so much more important and critical than elsewhere, but if it is intended to destroy the present alleged scheme to defraud the companies it doesn't suit the case at all. The Missouri Pacific officials deny emphatically that they intend to employ collectors, and insist that attention has oeen called to their road as a victim of their conductors as a blind to divert suspicion from the roads which are the real sufferers.

whether in view of the clouds that seemed to be banking on the western horizon he could not conscientiously modify the 7a. m. forecast and hold out hopes for a cool wave.

The Sergeant shook his head sadly. "There may be a cool wave this afternoon but I can't promise it for St. Louis. I rather look for showers in North Missouri, but there are none down on the slate for our city. Still, these clouds indicate a strong probability of a thunder storm. St. Louis in such weather is an immense chimney pouring its heat into the upper air, and the conditions are quite favorable for a sudden downpour. But the rain, if it comes, will be but of short duration, and the alleviation will be but temporary. I look for no permanent mitigation of the prevalent heat until to-morrow or next day."

Marshall McDonald Makes His Reap pearance in Judge Morris' Court.

HE SUCCEEDS IN GETTING A GHANGE OF VENUE FOR HIS CLIENTS.

e Refers to His Foreible Commitment or Saturday as a "Riotons Proceeding"-He Persuades Judge Morris to Send Nina Marshall's Case to Judge Pax

Although the atmosphere of the court-oom of the First District Police Court was was crowded with people until after the cases against Nina Marshall, the keeper of a Pine street disreptuable house, and her girls had been disposed of. Most of the visitors expected a repetition of the sensational of last Saturday morning, and were considerably disappointed when was made that been transferred another court and another day set for the hearing. Judge Morris opened court at 9 o'clock or shortly afterwards and was still engaged in trying "cage" cases— those of prisoners not out on bond—when Marshall McDonald, Nina Marshall's attor-Marshall McDonaid, Nina Marshall's attorney, entered the court-room about 10 o'clock and all eyes were at once directed to him. He walked up to city attorney Butler's docket book and ran his finger over the first half dozen names on the docket, and as he did so Mr. Butler suggested to him to ask for a change of venue. It would be granted, he felt certain, although some of the testimony in one of the cases has been heard.

Mr. McDonaid sald nothing in reply, but stepping up to the railing in front of the bench, he nodded to the court, smiled and addressed Judge Morris as follows: "In view of the riot which occurred here Saturday, Your Honor, and in view of the expressions of extreme prejudice from Your Honor in these cases, I presume that you do not wish to take any further cognizance of them."

"I presume that you and the defendants are justified in thinking I am blased in the matter," said Judge Morris, smilling good haturedly in reply.

Mr. McDonaid: "Don't Your Honor think."

Mr. McDonaid wanted a change of venue, but he wanted to get it without asking for it, and it now looked as if he would have to go on with the case before Judge Morris. He would not give np, however, and so after a pause he called Judge Morris' attention to the remarks he made on Saturday, after he, Mr. McDonaid, had been committed for contempt, in which the Judge first insisted upon hearing the case through right away, and then, after consenting to a continuance, stating that he was or might be biased too much to give the defendant a fair trial: "From your remarkable statements after I was dragged from the court-room last Saturday," said Mr. McDonaid, and then pausing as if thinking how he should word his remarks, he started again. "I understand that your Honor—." Judge Morris here broke in and did what Mr. McDonaid had been wanting him to de. "Weil, under the circumstances," said the Judge, "I will send these cases to the Second District Court. How many are there?"

Mr. McDonaid smiled and answered that

Mr. McDonald smiled and answered that he believed there were five.
Clerk McEnnis said that the fifth case was an old one, the girl having been arrested on another occasion and her case having been continued on account of sickness.

Judge Morris asked if Mr. McDonald had a certificate from the doctor to the effect that she was still sick, and the reply was that he had just sent out to see if there was one.

The Court: "Mr. McDonald, in these cases you will have to give another bond. I suppose the old bondsman will go on the new bond.

Mr. McDonald: "For a change of venue?"
The Court: "Yes."
Mr. McDonald: "Very well."
The Court: "If you and the City Attorney agree on noile prossing the Emma Hartman case I have no objections."
"City Attorney Butler: "I understand that she is laid up with the neuralgia."
Mr. McDonald: "She is convalescent now, I understand, and is just about able to get here if it is required of her to come."
City Attorney Butler: "Under the circumstances I will noile pros the case."

Mr. McDonald now left court and went over to Pete Morrissey's saloon and presently returned again with his bondsman, and new bonds were made out, returnable to the Second District Police Court on Aug. 3. Nina Marshall and the other three defendants then entered the court room and signed the new bonds, and after Pete Morrissey had added his signature to each, the cases were taken from Judge Morris' docket, much to his Honor's relif, as also to the gratification of Mr. McDonald and his cilents.

neared Bond's Station, which is about thirtyfive miles south of Adair, I. T., a pistol shot rang out on the clear night air from the express car and startied all who heard it.
The instant supposition was that the train had been attacked by robbers and the guards and trainmen in the adjoining bagage car grabbed their revolvers and guns and made rendy for another battle. The shot was soon explained and all fears dispelled. Just be fore reaching the little station Express Messenger McGhee, with a forethought born of recent experience, concluded to make an examination of his pistol to see whether it would work all right in case of an emergency. He knew that the train was rapidly approaching the haunts of highwaymen and he proposed to be ready to put a bullet into the first bloody bandit wno might show his head.
The weapon was a new Smith &

it seemingly with care it was accidentally fired and a 28-caliber ball plowed its way through the fleshy part of the messenger's left leg, entering at the inner thigh and coming out below the knee. The flesh was badly

A Young Girl Mysteriously Leaves Her Home Near Higginsville.

SEDALIA, Mo., July 25.—Albert Beard is a prosperous and highly respectable citizen who owns and conducts a farm two miles southwest of Hughesville, Pettis County. He has a wife and several children, one of whom is Miss Alta Beard, now mysteriously missing from the parental roof. For the past three years she has been a semi-invalid, her trouble being cause by a severe attack of rheumatism in her lower limbs.

Pleces of decayed bone were some time ago removed from one of her ankles. She had recovered from this operation, however, and experienced no iameness. Thursday morning last she was missing when called to breakfast. On a table in her room was a note addressed to her father, informing him that she had decided to leave home and go into the world to make her own living. Immediately after breakfast the father and some of his friends set out to search the neighborhood for the missing daughter. They visited every farmhouse within a radius of three or four miles but failed to find the slightest clue to her whereabouts. Beard on Friday went to Lamont but got no trace. He then telegraphed to Nashville, Ill., where Mrs. Beard has two sisters residing, but they promptly responded that they had not seen nor heard anything of Aka. This response was especially distressing, for the parents were pretty sure their child would visit that place. Last night both Mr. and Mrs. Beard arrived in Sedalia, and are making every effort to locate their daughter if she should be here. Mrs. Beard, who is very intelligent and refined, related the above facts to a Post-Dispartor representative at the Union Depot this morning. She is at a loss to understand Alita's action. There was no necessity for the girl to attempt to make her own living, as she was amply cared for at home. There is also probably no lover in the case. Miss Beard is only if years old. She is rather short in stature and heavy set, and hasblack eyes and hair. She is at upone of the world. She id not obtain any mo

REAL EST ATE INTERESTS

Forming a Syndicate to Build Upon the

Considering the extreme heat there was an active inquiry for property in real estate circles to-day, the demand being chiefly for West End residence sites. Owing to the midsummer season there is not as much doing as ormerly in heavy down town business sites, but prices are held very firm nevertheless. It developed to-day that the Bircher Building, on Chestnut street, opposite the Laclede Hotel, a report of the sale of which appeared in the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH, was purchased by Chas. C. Nicholls, E. V. P. Ritter and Charles K. Ramsey, and that they are going to form a syndicate for the improvement of the site, as stated in the original account published by this paper. The price paid for the property was $100,000. The property has a frontage of 65x116 feet, and some experts on values hold that the ground is easily worth $2,000, in view of its admirable location and the great number of splendid building improvements in course of construction in the business center.

It was reported to-day that a ninety-nine year lease of the Erskin property at the northeast corner of Eighth and Olive streets, had been agreed upon, but inquiries from parties who hold an option on the premises failed to develop any facts on which to base the gossip. Gamblers and Picnickers Indulge in a Pitched Battle.

David Shelton Has a Thumb and Peter Miller an Ear Shot Off and Others Receive Injuries-The Gamblers Escape-Mystery Surrounding Robert Wright's Wound-Bast Side News.

Queen's Lake, where the Germania Turn verein of Belleville gave a picnic. The bat-tle was between gamblers and picnickers, the trouble being caused by a gambling de-vice known as the "thimble rigger," by means of which several Belleville men were beaten out of various sums of money. Accusations of fraud led to a fight in which a score or more of men participated, and revolvers and knives were freely used. Two revolvers and knives were freely used. Two of the combatants were padly hurt and several were slightly injured. David Sheiton, a well-known nailer of this city, had a thumb shot off and was cut in the abdomen with a knife. His wounds are not necessarily fatal. Herman Miller, formerly of Belleville, who now keeps a hotel at Queen's Lake, together with his brother, Peter Miller, became involved in the fight and the latter lost an ear, which was carried away by a pistol ball. A number of others were slightly injured by blows from clubs and hands. It appears that the gamblers and latter lost an ear, which was carried away by a pistol ball. A number of others were slightly injured by blows from clubs and hands. It appears that the gamblers and their confederates, who were St. Louis men, escaped without serious injuries. One man who was mistaken for a confederate of the gamblers, but who appears to have been a pian farmer, was chased by an angry crowd from the picnic grounds to the railroad track where he caught a passing locomotive, and by clinging to the tender barely escaped his pursuers. Two of the latter grabbed the fleeling man's coat as he jumped onto the engine, and clinging to the gamment were dragged quite a distance, being finally compelled to release fheir hold when theflocomotive passed over a trestle. The wife of Herman Miller made a display of the heroism of which some women are capable, by shouldering a shotgun and protecting her husband, who was at one time threatened by a crowd of gambiers. None of the gambiers were arrested, as they boarded a north-bound train soon after the fight. They took possession of one of the coaches and terrorized the passengers by firing off their weapons. At Memphis, the first station this side of Queen's Lake, they were with difficulty put off. They made a show of revolvers and threatened to fire into the train if the attempt was made to pull out and leave them. The firmness and courage of the conductor, and the appearance of weapons in the hands of some of the passengers, however, cooled them down, and the train, after a short delay, proceeded to St. Louis. Passengers on the train say some of the gambiers were very badly used up.

almost to suffocation. Tom Holden's case was continued to Aug. 1. Tom is the son of a very nice old couple worth some $50,000, but according to the police the buy is a pickpocket. He has been arrested several times recently, though without any cause whatever, according to Mr. Holden. Sr., who says that the police have a spite against him and are persecuting him.
He is now charged in the Police Court with vagrancy and associating with thieves, the usual punishment for which is a very heavy fine. Jim Hunter, the man arrested with Ryan for driving off br. Mudd's horse and buggy a couple of weeks ago, was to have been tried, but he succeeded in satisfying Mr. Holmes of the Humane Society and also the police that he took the ride on the invitation of Ryan and that he supposed Ryan had authority to drive off the buggy, and so his case was nolle prossed. Ryan is now in the Workhouse. Con Morton, W. H. Darlington and August J. Somerville were in court for running saloons without license, but the City Attorney was informed by a deputy collector that their licenses had just been issued, and so the cases were noile prosed. John Sebastain and Ed Kinle were fined 35 each for fighting, and Fred Abel, who was arrested with them, was disclarged on the evidence. Court had ninety-two cases on his docket today, and the cage for prisoners was crowded

The Care of the Eyes.

The Care of the Eyes.

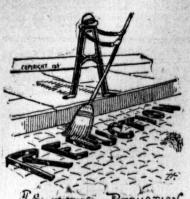

From Harper's Bazar.

Not long ago an advertisement was read in which an optician promised to examine the eyes of all who came to him free of charge and to provide glasses for the same at moderate rates. The object of this free examination was evidently to provide customers for the sale of the glasses and spectacles. The advertiser may have been a skilled oculist, and perfectly able to provide for the needs of his patients, but is it worth while to make the experiment? Any one who has ever been threatened with bilindness will protest against running any risk in the treatment of the eyes. Sight is the most blessed of all the live physical senses. Blindness, or the thought of blindness, seems like a living death, and only those who have experienced the fear can understand it. Do not take any risks with your sight. Do not experiment or allow others to experiment with your eyes if they are weak or railing. Economy of money at the risk of losing your eyesight is foolishness. The eye is one of the most delicate of or gans, and easily ruined and the sight destroyed. There is no excuse for negligence in the matter; there is no use to try home or sheap remedies. If your sight is failing, if your eyes are out of order, hesitate not for a moment, but consult a competent coulist at once, and seek none but the best, Sight is too valuable and precious to be trified with. Those who have surered will tell you the

THE DEUGGIST.

His Deuggist.

His Business.

From the American Druggist.

With the public at large the idea is prevalent that the business of the retail druggist is one of immense profits, and that necessarily any one with a little knowledge of pharmacy and a reasonable amount of money has only to open a store, hang up his sign, and his fortune is already assured. The runny (?) man of the laily press, the end man of the minstrels, and the low comedian of the minstrels, and that necessarily any one with a little knowledge of pharmacy and a reasonable amount of money has only to open a store, hang up his sign, and his fortune is already assured. The runny (?) man of the laily press, the druggist is can that of the clothier or shoeman, either of which is deemed necessary, as can that of the clothier or shoeman, either of which is deemed necessary. The druggist is the leading feature in a skit called "The Rag Baby." All this is well enough in its way, and so far as joking is concerned is harmless, but when the public begin to believe that such things are true it is time to call a hait.

The retail pharmacist, owing to his train—money has only to open a store, hang up his sign, and his fortune is already assured. The funny (?) man of the daily press, the end man of the minstrels, and the low comedian of the comic opera all vie with one another in working off fresh "gags" on the druggist and his profits, making him in that respect the rival of the ancient mother-in-law and boarding house source of supply for their alleged witticisms. The accessful writer of farces saw a chance and made the druggist the leading feature in a skit called "The Rag Baby." All this is well enough in its way, and so far as joking is concerned is harmless, but when the public begin to believe that such things are true it is time to call a halt.

The retail pharmacist, owing to his training either in college or his apprenticeship in the store, must necessarily be in culture above the ordinary commercial men of his surroundings, as anyone with an ordinary amount of gumption and ability can tend a shoe store or run a grocery, whereas the first requisite for a successful pharmacit must be above the ordinary commercial men of his surroundings, as anyone with an ordinary amount of gumption and ability can tend a shoe store or run a grocery, whereas the first to Denver and return at $32.15 for the round trip, and on Aug. $10.7 a rate of $12 will apply between the same points, for the round trip.

The embezziement case against Martin C.
Barthel the Criminal Court were on today's docket but were laid over to July 30 and it is said that it will never be tried, the Barthel family having settled with the Concordia Publishing Co., and the manager of the latter having decided not to prosecute the defendant. Barthel was for many years manager of the company and when arrested was reported to have gotten away with over $50,000. There are three indictments against him.

The prisoner was accordingly released.

They are sure enough of it—a record of 25 years, with thousands of the most hopeless cases, has satisfied them—but how can they prove it to you? There's no better way than with money. So they say this, and they mean it: "if we can't cure your Catarrh, no matter what your case is, we'll pay you $500 in cash. WAS A HIGH ROLLER

St. Louis Record of J. S. Palmer, the Belleville Bank Forger.

IR. THEO. TEMPLE AND MB. SOL. ROSEN BAUM'S EXPERIENCE WITH HIM.

of Grocery Supplies for Blanche King's Disreputable House-Story of His Attempts to Have Cheeks Cashed in This

Mr. J. S. Palmer of Palmer, Mass., is the name of a gentleman who has been figuring in St. Louis and Believille recently in a numper of shady transactions. He is described as ing the air of a gentlemanly cattle ranchman, and one familiar with the hardships of the plains, he is evidently possessed of the tastes veritable Mr. Barnes of New York, had his cash not been brought to a sudden termi vas in St. Louis and just how many victims he has left behind him is not definitely known, as he is making himself very scarce since Thursday last, when it was discovered that he had forged the name of Mr. Charles Hertel, a wealthy farmer of Freeburg, Ill., to a note for $400.

Mr. Palmer went from St. Louis to Belle-ville last Monday, and seeking Col. Casimir Audel, the Cashier of the First National Bank, introduced himself as a cattle dealer, and said he could make a sale to Mr. Hertel if the ne could make a sale to Mr. Hertel if the bank would discount a note of Mr. Hertel's for $400 for thirty days. Mr. Hertel being good for that amount, Col. Audel consented to accommodate him. The next day Palmer returned with the note and wanted the cash on it. This the cashier refused, asking why Mr. Hertel did not come with him. why Mr. Hertel did not come with him. Palmer said he was prostrated at Freeburg, his home, with the heat. Upon inquiry this was found to be true. Palmer was then given a draft on the First National Bank of New York for the amount, payable to the order of Charles Heatlern.

der of Charles Hertel.

Mr. Hertel came to Believille Thursday, and while admitting that the man had been to see him at Freeburg, he pronounced the note a forgery. The case was then placed in the hands of Sheriff Dawson of Believille to hunt Mr. Palmer down. unt Mr. Palmer down. hunt Mr. Palmer down.

HIS ST. LOUIS RECORD.

Exactly how long Falmer has been in St.
Louis is not known, but about three weeks ago he made his first appearance at the grocery store of Mr. Theo. H. Temple, at No.
2601 Market street, and made liberal purchases of fancy groceries, which he ordered sent to the disreputable house of Jessie King, at 2120 Chestnut street. He was accompanied on this first visit by at 2120 Chestnut street. He was accompanied on this first visit by some of the girls, inmates of the house, who waited for him in a drag on the outside. After this he made several visits to Mr. Tempel's store and always ordered a liberal supply of his best stock, paying cash for the goods and having them sent to the same address. On Monday evening, after he had been to Belleville and made his arrangements to have the bank discount Mr. Hertel's note, he called at Mr. Tempel's store and ordered a supply which was larger and more costly than any of his prior purchases. The order consisted of fine American Franco soups, Bass ale, Caylar, Spanish Queen more costly than any of his prior purchases. The order consisted of fine American Franco soups, Bass ale, Caviar, Spanish Queen olives, best California canned fruits, sliced pineapple, Cross & Blackwell pickles, beef extract, cakes and a whole box of Cashmere soap, it amounted to nearly $40, and in payment Palmer offered a check on the Palmer National Bank, of Palmer, Mass., signed by one Martin and indorsed in the same name.

The check was refused and Mr. Palmer told Mr. Tempel that he would bring him a draft if he was afraid of the check.

Tuesday Palmer went to Belleville and got the $400 draft as above mentioned and, returning that evening, presented it to Mr. Tempel. That gentieman saw that the draft had every appearance of being genuine on its face and told Palmer that he would accept it, in payment for the groceries that night, and if it turned out on investigation in the morning to be all right he would return him the balance. But this did not suit Palmer, so he went away with his draft, but without the groceries, and Mr. Tempel has not seen him since.

Palmer, in his rounds about the city struck

Palmer, in his rounds about the city struck Ing been introduced to Mr. Sol Rosenbaum, the manager, he offered him the draft Wednesday morning and asked him to have it cashed for him. Mr. Rosenbaum had it sent to the National Bank of the Republic, where it was pronounced genuine in everything except the indorsements, and Mr. Rosenbaum was advised that unless he knew the signature to be that of Chas. Hertel or the man Martin, whose name, by the way, and not that of Palmer, was used in the draft, he had better have nothing to do with it.

So Palmer failed here to work his little game, and made matters more suspicious by showing some blank checks on the Palmer National Bank.

Mr. Rosenbaum says that he will do all in National Bank. Mr. Rosenbaum says that he will do all in his power and give the police any assistance he can towards running down Falmer. It is probable that the willy Massachusetts man has succeeded in getting some one to cash the draft either in St. Louis or the vicinity, and that he may yet fall into the hands of the police.

From Harper's Young People.

The ancient Turkish couriers always ran From Harper's Young People.

The ancient Turkish couriers always ran with bare feet, which grew so hard and destitute of feeling that they are said to have had themselves shod, like horses, with light iron shoes. To render the resemblance more complete, they carried in their mouths balls of sliver, pierced with holes, and champed these as a horse does his bit. Further, their belts and garters were furnished with little belts, which tinkled wherever they went.

Besides their pay they received two full suits of clothes every year. Their costume consisted of an Albanian cassock of damask or striped satin and a beit of slik enriched with gold in which they carried their poniard. Later they began to wear coverings upon their feet—long stockings as well as a rude kind of shoe. Upon their heads they wore high bonnets covered with silver from which waved enormous piumes of estrich feathers. In one hand each man carried his hatchet and in the other a bag full of comfits, with which they kept their mouths moist while running.

In this costume they accompanied their noble master, and conveyed his messages as far as he pleased to send them. As soon as they had received his orders, away they went, leaping and capering among the crowd with the agility of a deer, crying: "Sauli, sauli!" ("Take care, take care!") On they rushed night and day with astonsishing swiftness, taking no repose until they had delivered the message intrusted to them.

Heavy wheat receipts.

But the market did not break.
On the contrary it advance right stiffly.
Weather in England reported favorably for crops.
Complaints of dry weather blasting the corn crop. Shipments by barges 'Saturday to New Orleans, 0,000 bu wheat. Weather clear, hot; 93 deg. at 12 o'clock. Local orecast: Fair, hot. The Northwestern wheat crop inbad shape and erious damage feared. How low would wheat have sold to-day without option trading and speculation?
The local wheat market must have been fearfully versold from the way it acted this morning. A London cable says: July reports concerning Russian wheat crop show falling off and these ad-vices are confirmed by the London Times and Lon-don News. don News.

Kansas City to Joe Sherry: Great Bend, Kan.—No damage to corn; not needing any rain. Sterling, Kan.—No damage to corn. Hutchinson, Kan.—Very little damage to corn as yet. little damage to corn as yet.

A Paris letter says the French wheat yield is no now estimated above 100,000,000 hectolitres, equivalent to 250,000,000 bu. Last year's crop in France was 224,000,000 bu. Last year's crop in Prance was 224,000,000 bu.

Portland, Ore.—The Oregon wheat yield is estimated to be short 2,800,000 bu. The shortage in the Washington crop is estimated at about 1,000,000 bu. The grain has been scorched.

Forest, III.—There has been a great improvement in corn during the past week. The farmers admit that they never saw anything like it in all their life. Oats are filling very well. Weather hot. Can go one week without rain.

Lincoln, Neb.—Reports from southern counties of Idncoln, Neb.—Reports from southern counties of ohnson, Gage and Richardson state corn is badly urled by hot weather yesterday. If the same con-laues a day or two longer it will result in serious amage in the best fields. Hutchison, Kan., to Sherry: "None of our stations admit any injury to corn adjacent, but some of them southwest of here reportingly at next station west. I don't believe any material damage has been done in our best corn territory, but do believe another week as hot as the pass would be very serious. Have not had any hot winds yet."

need as not as the pass would be very serious. Have not had any hot winds yet."

Ind an shipments of wheat confinue small, the past week's 480,000 bu, of which 360,000 bu to the United Kingdom and 120,000 bu to the continent. The week before they were also 480,000 bu and for corresponding week last year 1,056,000 bu. Since April 1 they have been 19,020,000 bu. Aganst 23,516,000 bu for same period last year.

Official reports of the Hungarian Minister of Agriculture admit the expectation of a cereal harvest above that of last year. In spite of the unitavorable weather which prevailed during June, reaping has already begun, and according to latest statistics, the probable yield of wheat may reach 137,440,000 bu, compared with 135,206,000 bu harvested last year.

There is one peculiarity, which has not been nocompared with 135,296,000 bu harvested last year. There is one peculiarity, which has not been noticed in several seasons before, and that is apparent on some of the gumbo lands in the Red River valley. This soil was thoroughly sosked by the rain of the early spring, and seems to have baked so hard since then, that the frequent showers of the past ten days have not softened it up, and in consequence of this the grain is yelfow and is not making any growth. General Manager Robinson of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway wires from Topeka, Kan.: "Weather very warm, but do not hear of any hot winds from any source. Good rains are reported in nearly every part of the State, except extreme northeastern portion and small section on Strong City branch. The general condition of the corn in the State is spiendid." the State is spiendid."

Advices by mail and wire from most all parts of the country, say that the hot weather during the past week has been exceedingly favorable for corn, the unusual amount of moisture making the excessive heat very beneficial. This morning's advices by wire from Western Kansas, however, say that hot dry winds are blasting the corn, and some parts of Nebraska and Kansas say they must have rain within within the next few days.

THE RELIGIOUS FIREMAN.

the Rest of the Company.

the Rest of the Company.

From the Pittsburg Dispatch.

"We once had an over-religious member in this company." began the champion story-teller of Engine Co. No. 10, Pittsburg, the other evening in reply to a request for an engine-house story, "but he did not remain long. He was too good for a fireman or, indeed, any other vocation in this life. We got this religious chap through a transfer and I will never forget him. He thad not been in the engine-house five minutes until he began sincing, praying and rectting verses of scripture. At first we allowed him to go ahead and enjoy himself, since such conduct in an engine-house was something new. But when our zealous Christian brother began to whoop and crow around all night and neglect his dutlets in order to attend to his devotional exercises the novelty of the thing wore off.

"It was no use to talk to him about the matter. He would not listen, but would immediately begin a sermon on the heather blindness of his worldly comrades, winding up with an exportation to those individuali to forsuke their ways and foliow him. Finally the new member made his presence so offensive that one day, during his absence, a meeting of the firemen was called to concoct a cure. We were afraid he would become violent if unrestrained.

"Well, the meeting proved a success. That night a section of hose was laid from the engine room in through our friend's bedroom, and one end was saugly secreted under his from the Pittsburg Dispatch.

night a section of hose was laid from the engine room in through our friend's bedroom, and one end was snugly secreted under his pillow. When the religious freman returned home he was in very low spirits, owing to the contemplation of his sinful career, and was inclined to be sulky. Finally he retired for the night, turning the light out as usual. He had been in bed perhaps an hour, when from under the troubled sleeper's head there issued a horrible groan. Then came another and another, the latter a muffled moan. In less than two seconds the fanatic was doubled up like a patent corkscrew and was filled with holy terror.

"The joker of the company, who had his mouth at the other end of the hose, then began to mumble some of the passages he had picked up from his religious brother, though much modified and fearfully mutilated.

"Prepare to meet thy fate,' thundered a voice deep and awful. The victim writhed and shivered as he heard the words and knew not what to do.

"I am the evil one, continued the voice, 'and I say unto thee, repent thee and get thee out of this company double quick or the fire of damnation will encompass thee roundabout."

THE GREAT COIN TRICK.

It is a Fine Illusion, but Can Fe Done Easily if One Can Palm Cleverly.

Easily if One Can Palm Cleverly.

From the Mail and Express.

An easy trick of the magician is catching half-dolar coins with his right hand and dropping them in a hat. A slik hat is best, because the crown is deeper. It is held firmly with the leit hand. These coins are pulled out of the nose, the heir or the ears of any one in the audience, and dropped with a clink into the hat. Sometimes the operator stands on the stage, and pretends he is catching coins in the air. If any one-in the audience will observe he will notice that the magician pulling coins from the impalpable nowhere always takes care to keep the back of his right hand to his audience.

The left hand, which; holds the hat, has some ten or fitteen coins in it and whenever the right hand pretends to drop a coin the idusion is made perfect by the left hand dropping a coin instead. The coin in the right hand remains there and is cleverly "palmed." If the paim of the hand were turned to the audience the flusion would soon be dispelled. The only difficult thing about it is "palming," or holding the coin in the palm of the hand and permitting it to get to the fingers when the pretended catch is made.

It will be noticed tnat the operator throws

WYOMING INVADERS.

Probabilty That They Will Never Be Brought to Trial CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 25 .- That the stockmen who started a campaign against the "rustlers" of Northern Wyoming by killing two men in Johnson County early in April will ever have a trial now seems extremely doubtful. The prosecution wants to punish can not get at them without trying the entire party. Preliminary proceedings have tire party. Preliminary proceedings have required an outlay of $23,000, and it is figured that to bring the case to termination will cost $18,000 more. Johnson County's treasury is bare and the county's efforts so far to raise cash have been without success. It is the belief of careful people there that most of the intruders have been sufficiently punished and that the prosecution will be dropped within two weeks. One of the attorneys for Johnson County is now at Buffalo trying to get fee money to himself and his two associates, who have contracted to carry the case to a conclusion for $10,000. They have not yet received installments due July 1.

Mississippi River. Zeller did not attempt the high leap from the hurricane deck, the horse jumping, or rather failing, from the lower deck, which is only a few feet above the water. The animal after much difficulty was driven to the boat's edge and its forelegs gotting beyond the deck the horse fell into the river. Zeller fell off him into the water, but clung to the bridle to save himself. He was rescued by some boatmen and the horse swam onto

CLAIMS THAT ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS FOR CROOKEDNESS WERE BROKEN.

There Were Two or Three "Dead Horses" in Nearly Every Race it is Charged-Garfield Park Will Abolish Its Foreign Book-Base Ball, Pugilism and Sport-

Speaking of the Washington Park meeting that closed Saturday the Chicago Daily New "In two senses only can the meeting be called successful-the number of records broken and the great attendance. Aside from that Brighton Beach cannot show a neeting so full of jobs which have gone unpunished, and which have been so complete ly glossed over. Jockeys with a reputation for honesty have been afraid to go to the post, and at least three have confessed that they expected to be fined or suspended before the meeting closed. This, too, for no fault of theirs. Form-book men have closed their hands and woefully admitted that they could not account for the running at Washington Park.
"On no other track has gambling been so reckless nor the methods more hoggish. Bookmakers dared not make a fair book, for Bookmakers dared not make a fair book, for it was generally whispered there were two or three "dead" horses in each race. Nine out of ten of the long shot winners were played for a "killing," and the butchery was highly satisfactory to the winner. The Shaw combination won heavily, though Chris Smith of the Kendall stable, it is said, is a heavy loser. Had Mr. Smith played his own horses as recklessly as he has played others he would have been a heavy winner. have been a heavy winner. As it is, he has found that others have profited by his success. Few of the betting men are in good humor and the charges that have been openly made in the paddock and the grand stand ought to have reached the ears of the members lolling in the club-house verandas. It may be said that these charges are not susceptible of proof. Few racing jobs are, but men are often condemined by the speech of people. The reputation of a man for veracity affects his credibility as a witness and the past has always been interesting history when a man's career of crookedness is exposed. * * * If the public is dissatisfied the horsemen are more so." The article concludes: "The meet-ing has caused any amount of dissatisfaction. It has added faster records to the track, but has been more prolific of turf scandal than any other ever held in Chicago." GARFIELD PARK'S PLANS, CHICAGO, Ill., July 25 .- Authorities of the Garfield Park Club will carry out the programme which they have announced for today. The racing, they say, will be conways result from the highest temperature. At no time during the day did the mercury rise above 91 deg., still there were three times as many prostrations from heat as on Saturday, when the thermometer registered 52 deg. During the twenty-four hours ending at midnight last, twenty-five cases of sunstroke were reported to the police, three of which resulted fatally. The dead are George Eckerman, Charles Wagner and James Hennesy. Some of those prostrated, it is thought, will die.

Mr. Lucas is steffel in the Gambriaus stable. Mr. Lucas is not and never was in any way connected with the stable, John Garcia, trainer for the Gambriaus stable, trained last year for Mr. Robert J. Lucas, who dispensed with his services after Alfred K.'s victory at Latonia last fall, when Garcia, it is alleged, gave his present employers the information which caused them to back the horse almost off the boards, preventing Mr. Lucas from getting on his own money at the long odds which should have and did at first prevail.

BASE BALL.

In all his campaigns as a leader of chan pion base ball aggregations Capt. Comiskey has been fortunate in possessing great bac stops, says a Cincinnati writer, who is an ardent admirer of the great Commy. Bushong served him when he was in his prime and Tom Deasley, one of the most brilliant players who ever wore a mask, did his best work as a St. Louis Brown. Dolan was another good man in his time. When Cincinnati let Jack Boyle silp away— a green and unsophisticated kid—Capt. Comiskey took him and hammered base ball sense into him until he ranked with the star receivers of the day, and by the way, he did more telling work when under Comiskey's eye than he has done away from him. This year Comiskey has been given grand aid by Morgan Murphy had when Harry Vaughn took hold he encouraged him when others scoffed and doubted. Jerry Harrington's early follies were rebuked with emphasis and that the lesson was not thrown away is evidenced by the good work the big boy is doing now that he has been forgiven.

SAVED HER CHILD.

Awful Death.

Long Branch, N. J., July 25 .- A thrilling the Star Hotel, in which Mrs. Mary Ruhling performed an act of bravery which saved her child from a horrible death, although she her two children, Katie, aged 3, and Edna, plazza holding her infant daughter Edna in her arms, she was startled by hearing screams and looking up saw her little daughter Katie on the railroad track in front of an approaching engine, which was coming from the West End. Without hesitating and still holding her baby in her arms, Mrs. Ruhling rushed frantically to the rescue of her child. She paid no heed to the shouts of a dozen persons to keep back. The engineer saw the danger of Mrs. Ruhling and her two children and at once reversed the engine. Mrs. Ruhling dragged little Katie from the track when the locomotive was but a few yards away. Almost the next instant the brave mother was struck by the cowcatcher and thrown a considerable distance from the track. The baby was knocked out of her arms and fell a few feet from where Mrs. Ruhling lay bleeding and unconscious. Physicians after making an examination of Mrs. Ruhling, found that she had received a severe gash in the head and a dislocated hip and internai injuries. The baby was not seriously hurt. Mrs. Ruhling regained consciousness an hour after the accident, and asked if her children had been by the consciousness and hour after the accident, and asked if her children had been gained consciousness an hour after the acci-dent, and asked if her children had been killed.

Working for Pardons. The discussion was in reference to the political ques tions involved in the movement. For a while it looked like the whole movement might get it looked like the whole movement might get, stranded on the political rocks which the committee found in its way. The matter was further complicated by W. H. Neebe making an effort to withdraw the name of his brother Oscar from the petition on the ground that he wished to get a definite answer from Gov. Fifer on the petitions now in his possession for the release of Oscar Neebe. The whole question was finally referred to an executive committee, with full power to act in the matter, so that the movement is very little further ahead than it was after the first meeting which was called at the same place about a month ago. month ago.

The management might furnish a list of references half a mile long, but it will be sufficient to say that 0. S. Campbell, the pressent champion of the United States, was graduated from the Brooklyn Branch in Prospect Park, where he ladd the foundation of his present greatness at a time when he had to stand on his toes to look over the net. And Miss M. E. Cahill, who holds the lady championship of the United States, not only made her first American appearance several years ago at the New York school, but may still be seen there on many a pleasant summer afternoon, giving illustrated lectures, "without words," to the admiring pupils, who cluster around and try to find out how she does it. It will probably not be long before some of these same pupils, now in knickerbockers and short frocks, will be disputing the championship with Mr. Campbell and Miss Cahill, while telling them, with ill-concealed pride, that they "are old park players, too." Before 90 clock in the morning the young pupils congregated at the little house, by far too small to serve its purpose, where the net are kept, waiting for the hoisting of the Stars and Stripes, which indicates that the courts are open, eager to begin their studies, and from that hour on the meadow rings with all manner of shouts—"ready," "play," "outside," "no it wasn't," "on the line," "fault," "double" and the numerous odd expressions peculiar to tennis.

The school's system of instruction is based entirely on the self-culture principle, and the consequence is a great variety of methods and results. A visi

A stranger might imagine that every one was doing every body else some particular act of couriesy all the time, for the air resounded with "thank you," in every conceivable tone of voice. This "thank you," however, is only the technical expression for requesting the return of a call that has fallen into another court. But good-bye to the ball that rolls among the bushes at the outskirts of the courts, for no "thank you," however loud or sweet, will coax it back again.

MISSISSIPPI RAILROAD TAX.

Roads Out of Business. Jackson, Miss. , July 25 .- Under an act of the Legislature railroads doing business in this World gives her living expenses, showing to State are required to pay an ad valorem tax instead of the privilege tax as heretofore. It is urged that some roads in view of the imposition will be compelled to stop business in Mississippi. The total railroad mileage of the State is 2,459 miles. Last year they paid privilege taxes amounting to $212.895. Under the ad valorem law the taxes will necessarily be much greater. The Kailroad Commission, which finished its labors last night, put the be much greater. The Railroad Commission, which finished its labors last night, put the assessed valuation of all the roads at $49,000,000, an increase of $82,000,000 over the valuation rendered by the roads themselves. On this $49,000,000 the State levies a tax of 5 mills. The counties will levy from 7½ to 12½ mills and the levee districts through which the roads run may collect additional taxes for levee purposes. On an assessment of $49,000,000 it will be seen that the lowest possible State and county tax is $612,000 and a larger tax may be possible. It is possible the valuation made by the commission may be slightly reduced but even then the law will be burdensome. Express, sleeping car, and telegraph companies are taxed in the same way but the valuation here is small.
